

Four Lose Lives in Leslie County Moonshine Raid

Two 'Shiners, One Woman and Young
Tejay Officer Killed—Five Children Found Unharmed
in Riddled House

STILL HOUSE FORTIFIED IN ELABORATE MANNER

PINEVILLE, Mar. 29.—With four killed at the beginning of the first day of another raid into Leslie county, prohibition agents turned toward home rather than push further in at this time. Kelly Walker, deputy constable under Jim Wagner, who is described as a brave and fearless officer, was killed by Ike Strong as he passed the window of Strong's house. When the other officers saw him fall they opened fire on the house, killing Ike Strong, Della Strong, his wife, and Bob Strong, his brother. When the shooting died down the officers entered the Strong house and found five children, ranging in age from one to sixteen years, huddled in a corner, horror-stricken and speechless with fright. Officers say they cannot understand how the children escaped with no injuries as the house was literally riddled with bullets.

William Saylor, prohibition agent in charge, left Pineville Tuesday with W. H. Green, prohibition agent from Barbourville, Adrian Metcalf, U. S. Marshal and Jim Wagner. These three men were joined by more deputies at Wallins Creek and ten men from Leslie county, making a total of about twenty-five in the posse.

Made Attack at 5 A. M.
They left Wallins Creek Tuesday night, riding and walking over Pine mountain to the head of Middle Fork in Leslie county. They timed their arrival at the Strong home so as to arrive early in the morning, believing if they found Strong sober they might have no trouble. They were just beginning to surround his house, when he shot through the window and killed Walker.

Mrs. Strong was shot accidentally. At the Strong home, which is situated on the east side of Middle Fork, about fifteen miles from Harlan, the officers demolished a still and a large quantity of liquor.

Ike Strong was known as a bad man and four or five months ago shot at Sheriff Blair, of Harlan, and his deputies when they attempted to arrest him. One shot went through the sheriff's hat. Strong got away successfully.

Seven hundred gallons of beer, five gallons of moonshine whiskey and one forty-gallon still and one sixty-gallon still were found and destroyed. The stills were in a regular still house built with a fort in front, obviously for protection from raiders, while a little ways off was a guardhouse of logs, also heavily fortified.

Kelly Walker was a resident of Tejay where the remains have been shipped for burial tomorrow. He is survived by a wife and two children, one two, the other six. He was about thirty years old. Judge J. G. Rollins who has been in close touch with his work, spoke most highly of him and his work as an officer. The entire community sincerely regrets his death.

county, about 25 miles from Harlan. The dead are: Ike Strong, moonshiner; Mrs. Della Strong, wife of the shiner, George Strong, moonshiner; Kelly Walker, possessor. The Strong were brothers.

Officers had warrants for Ike Strong charged with moonshining. He and his brother, George, were considered desperate men.

Officers surrounded the house and Walker approached to call the moonshiners out. George fired through a front window of the house striking Wheeler in the breast. Walker wheeled and was shot through the head and killed instantly. Officers Saylor and Tuggle narrowly missed the same fate. The other possemen then opened fire, shooting into windows and doors. About 75 shots were fired, the battle being all over in two and a half minutes.

As the duel subsided, officers approached and found Ike Strong and wife, Della, dead. Before George Strong died an hour later, he said he wanted to die rather than face trial for killing possessor Walker. The officers found one still about five steps from the back of the house, and two more large stills about 300 yards away heavily barricaded with brush and breastworks.

Had the moonshiners been at the still officers said it would have been almost impossible to have captured the men without five or six getting killed. Seven hundred gallons mash and the three large stills were destroyed.

The room, inside, will be finished in light tan with mahogany and ivory woodwork and fixtures. A little alcove to the left will be fitted up for millinery.

Verran and Co. intend to carry a complete line of women's and children's ready-to-wear, with special emphasis on children's garments.

SIR CONAN DOYLE TO FIGHT AGAINST FALSE MEDIUMS

Brings Proven Ghostly Conversations and Ectoplasmic Photographs to America to Convince of Spiritualism

FAMOUS BRITISHER REFUSES BANDY WORDS WITH CRITICS

BY MILTON BRONNER
LONDON, March 29.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle revealed just before sailing for America, that he plans an offensive war in behalf of spiritualism against critics and false mediums.

Armed with new evidence of ghostly conversations and ectoplasmic photographs, which he will show for the first time in America, the famous novelist-spiritualist delivered these broadsides:

"People criticizing spiritualism need to distinguish between true and false prophets. The public hasn't learned that lesson yet."
"Why, if Christ and his apostles came to New York tomorrow they would be arrested for vagrancy or some other trumped-up charge. They would have to fight public incredulity just as they did 1800 years ago."

"False mediumship is the exception rather than the rule. Not over 10 per cent of mediums are fakirs."
"I propose that spiritualists form an international organization and issue certificates of mediumship, just as credentials were given by the early Christian Church."

"We would prevent licenses being given to false mediums and would withdraw certification from those found guilty of faking or abusing their powers."

Will Not Agree With Critics
Ghost frauds causing the greatest harm says Sir Arthur, are not the ordinary mediums falsely claiming spiritual power.

"I have no desire to bandy bitter words," he said, "with critics who charge that my spirit photographs and seances are frauds. Nor am I out to defend doubtful mediums, who are really camp-followers, hanging on to the fringe of spiritualism and whom we cannot shake off."

"It is the spiritualists themselves who have exposed most of the clever fakirs. We are after the truth."

"As a rule it is not we who are deceived, but rather the poor dupes who pay money to have their fortunes told and their future read. We can easily detect the false medium. Persons who are troubling us most are those who have mediumistic powers intermittently. They may have genuine powers Monday, for example, and not on Tuesday. Therefore some are prone to give exhibitions of genuine power one day and to fake outrageously the next."

Brings Spirit Pictures
Sir Arthur is taking to America what he says are new pictures of ectoplasm issuing from a medium, together with a full report of experiments by Dr. Schrenck Notzing, of Munich, who he declares convinced 25 famous German and Swiss scientists that ectoplasm exists.

"I shall relate new conversations with people dear to me who have passed beyond," he said. "And I shall tell of the marvelous powers of Frau Silbert, an Austrian woman, which I investigated at several seances. Several others and myself sat with her around a table in a well lighted room on the floor under the table we placed various articles, metallic and non-metallic. Without touching these articles she caused them to come popping up through a small hole we cut in the table. She also gave an exhibition of mysterious forces which made her whole head flame. Her hair seemed to crackle with glowing electric flashes."

The famous spiritualist said he had been investigating charges that William Hope, spirit photographer of Cree, was a fakir, and had just completed a book giving proof of his reliability.

FISCAL COURT OF BELL COUNTY MEET TUESDAY

First Meeting Under New Schedule—
Appropriations, Levies and Improvements in Program to Be Taken Up

FINANCING HEALTH UNIT BIG QUESTION TO CONSIDER

PINEVILLE, Mar. 29.—The first meeting of the Fiscal Court of Bell county to be held under the new schedule, will convene Tuesday, April 2. Five thousand dollars of claims, which have been presented and filed, will be passed upon; warrants, totaling about $8,000, which are outstanding and which were not retired by the $60,000 loan, will have to be solved some way; an appropriation of $3,000 for the maintenance of the much needed health unit for the remainder of the year, will be discussed; a report of the board of supervisors will be heard; the sheriff's settlement will be made; the levy for the county tax fixed; some provision made for the repair and construction of county roads; and an appropriation for the county's expenses for the next quarter made. These are just a few of the things that the Fiscal Court has before it to be done.

According to F. A. Heath, county auditor, the running expenses of the county amount to about $8,100 quarterly. The upkeep of the poor house, the courthouse and the jail together with salaries of the county officials, amounts to $4,200, while the board of prisoners and jail fees total $3,700 quarterly.

The county tax which has been levied has been 75 cents on the $100. Twenty-five per cent of this goes to the sinking fund, 35 per cent for county expenses, and 15 per cent toward the payment of the $60,000 loan.

One of the most important problems which the court faces, perhaps is the question of maintaining the health officer. When considering the importance of the work accomplished by this department it seems practically impossible to dispense with it. It is probably the most discussed question which faces the court, and it is hoped that some way may be found to secure the needed $5,000 for its continuance during the remainder of the year.

KRESS COMPANY MAY LOCATE HERE

Cannot Find Building Long Enough—
Deal With Weinstein's
Fall Through

Plans have been made by the S. H. Kress company, mammoth chain store organization, to establish a store in Middlesboro but these have probably been abandoned because the deal did not get the desired location. Herman Weinstein, owner of the Weinstein building which will be occupied by Brown Bros. May 1, says that representatives of the Kress firm had tried to get a lease on the building but that such was denied owing to the fact that Kress would not be ready to take over the building for several weeks.

Mr. Weinstein admitted the possibility of Kress' coming here later if a suitable location could be found. The main difficulty seems to be that of finding a building large enough for the purposes of the chain store firm. If such can be found in a desirable location it is probable that Middlesboro will yet have a link in the great mercantile chain.

ONE HUNDRED SEVEN POSTAL MONEY ORDERS ISSUED MONDAY

More postal money orders were purchased here Monday than on any other single day in the history of the postoffice, according to postal officials. One hundred and seven orders were issued. The aggregate amount of the money sent which was a little over $700 has been exceeded several times, especially during the times after whiskey had been voted out of the city and could be ordered by mail. More than five hours of waiting were required to fill in the blanks yesterday. The greater part of the money was sent to mail order houses, presumably for spring merchandise.

A THOUGHT
Is there not an appointed time to man upon earth? Are not his days also like the days of an hireling?—Job, 7:1.

Life is rather a state of embryo—a preparation for life. A man is not completely born until he has passed through death.—Franklin.

BEGINNING OF A NEW BUILDING ERA

Birds, inspired by the magic touch of spring and controlled by Nature's home-loving instinct, are beginning to build nests which will be their summer homes. Man, no less a creature of Nature than the birds, is also endowed with the home-loving instinct and unless such natural desires are repressed they will be manifested in the same manner—that of building a home. We must confess with shame, however, that the creature whom God has made "a little lower than the angels" is not always as thrifty as the birds and often neglects home-building opportunities.

It is the general belief among real estate and builders' snappy dealers that a new era of house building is now opening in Middlesboro. The fact that attractive bungalows and cottages are springing up in nearly all sections of the city give credence to this belief. Consider the present shortage of homes which continues to exist in spite of the number of new houses that have been completed this year, there is no reason why a building boom should not begin progress.

With mines and factories in this vicinity working full time and with the promise of additional work when the iron foundry starts, Middlesboro is, without doubt, entering upon a new period of prosperity. Investment in houses and realty was never safer than at present.

Two new mercantile establishments will be located in the city during the next few weeks, others are changing locations and increasing their stocks and there are prospects of other stores coming here. Men who were financing these enterprises are not fooled in the future prosperity of Middlesboro. Merchants with years of experience are confident of success when they make changes of this nature and if they entertained doubts as to local business prospects it is safe to say they would not risk their capital in new enterprises.

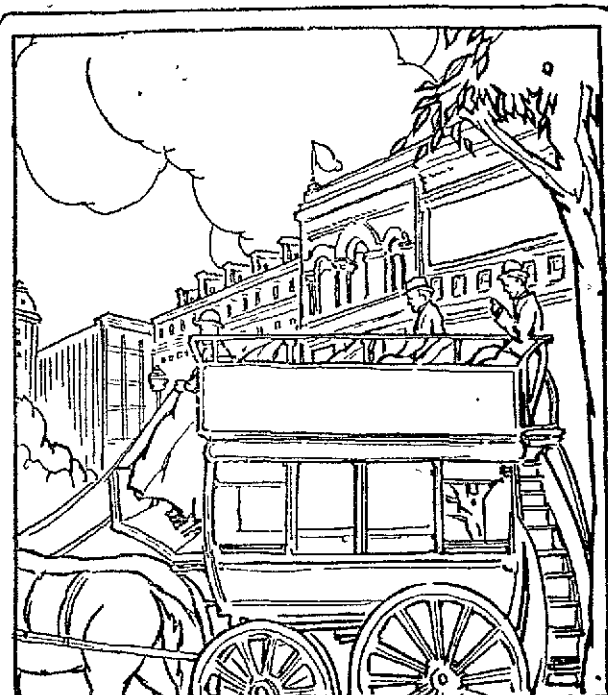

Some say they would build but for the high prices of lumber and other materials. Prices are high, no doubt, but when will they be lower? Our forests are gradually disappearing from the continuous increasing inroads made on their timber and advancing prices are logical results.

Since population and houses constitute a city, the only real way to make Middlesboro grow is to increase the number of houses which, in turn, will increase the population. It is the patriotic and civic duty of every person who has, or can secure, the means, to contribute to the city's growth by building houses.

SUPPORTING THE CONSTITUTION

Frederick A. Willis, Commissioner of Immigration delivered a highly useful address in Louisville Sunday. His idea that Americanization is something that must be acquired, rather than "forced down the throat" of the foreigner is good. But when Mr. Willis expressed the belief that school teachers should be required to take oath to support the constitution, he was assuming that all instructors of youth know the Constitution.

Knowledge as to the organic law of the nation is usually assumed and the assumption is without much foundation. The lawyers say that the layman is inclined to pass upon the questions of constitutionality when men learned in the law are in doubt. The prevailing idea is that the Constitution is a work that is read by the people. As a matter of fact the Constitution plays a very small part in the educational life of the general public. All those taking oath to support the Constitution should be required to swear that they have read the articles as well as the amendments.

The Constitution is worth reading. It was formed when there was dire need of sound legislative enactment. It took the place of a defective agreement of confederacy among the States. It undertook to remedy the errors which had brought grief upon England in the days of Charles and Cromwell. It recognized human rights and obligations which had been the cause of conflicts through the ages and which had been denied until the reluctant John signed the Great Charter. From the opening sentence to the last of the amendments, to date, the Constitution repays reading and study. Teachers should be able to teach it as well as swear to uphold it. It might even be read with profit by some of the politicians.—Louisville Times.

The guy who says, "See!" I don't mind, Nor he who says always, "Yuh know!" But there is one type of mankind Which causes my temper to glow— And that's the gawbo, the bird of the bean,

Who's constantly saying, "You know what I mean?"

"I'm wondering whether you what I mean? This uncertain weather will stay on the scene? I feel like a winner all peppy and keen I've just had my dinner—You know what I mean?"

With rising inflection he uses this phrase And keeps on repeating it all of his days. Till though I'm a person well poised and serene, I feel I must kill him—"You know what I mean?"

"That girl is a pippin—you know what I mean? She sets my heart skippin', she sure is a queen!

The grass keeps growing—its color is green, The wind's always blowing, you know what I mean?"

So sentence by sentence and time after time And whether the subject be gay or sublime This phrase he repeats without reason or rhyme,

This constant, "You know what I mean?"

The guy who repeats "Understand?" With every remark that he makes. Is one that should be promptly canned; But greatest of all human mistakes Is that pesky bozo or bimbo or bean Who ends every sentence, "You know what I mean?"

LETTER FROM PRISCILLA BRADFORD TO MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR FRIEND:
As you wished me, I have taken very good care to analyze the young woman who is going to marry your son. Otherwise, I confess, she would not have interested me much. She invited me to the Country Club for tea; you remember I told you about the invitation in my last letter. Mary Alden went with me.

Dear friend, I hope you will forgive me if I tell you that I am very much worried about this marriage.

I could easily see that John and this girl have nothing in common.

She is very pretty and is conscious of it. She is quite clever and wants you to acknowledge it. She is rather rude and quite proud of it. She is very fond of beautiful clothes; those she was wearing were much too fine for one in John's circumstances—and I hate to tell you this—while we were drinking our tea she calmly opened a gold cigarette case, lighted and smoked a gold-tipped cigaret which had her monogram on it. To say I was shocked would be putting it mildly. I wanted to ask her if she had ever smoked before John. Surely Mrs. Prescott, no man would ask a woman to be his wife whom he knew smoked cigarets, even in these lax days.

While we were at the Country Club, a very good-looking young man came into the dining-room and Leslie's young sister, Alice—who was also smoking—beckoned him over. One could see that this man was desperately in love with Miss Hamilton. He never took his eyes off her. Poor fool, she must have encouraged him much before she turned him down for John. He is giving her a fancy dress ball next week, but neither of them saw fit to invite me. Perhaps it is to be so well that they knew that I would not approve.

Dear Mrs. Prescott, I know that you will be grieved, if not heart-broken at this marriage. It is not at all what you could have wished for your beloved son.

ing the desk taken apart.

I do not know whether your taste runs to antiques, but this is not so very old, you know, not nearly as ancient as some of the things that came over in the Mayflower (that are in my home and which will be yours some day).

I have received a letter from Miss Bradford in which she tells me that she has had a most charming visit with you. I hope that you like her as well as she seemed to have liked you. for I know that Priscilla would like to be a great friend to my son's wife as she is to him.

I shall be in your town the morning of the twenty-first. If you can find a moment's time to come in with John during the day I shall be as happy as it is possible for me to be on the day before the one when I shall be losing my son forever.

Yours very truly,
MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT.

THE NEWS FROM PINEVILLE

SAYS AMERICANS ARE CHANGING

Average Business Man Today Takes Responsibilities More Seriously Says Dr. Violette

PINEVILLE, Mar. 29.—Dr. E. E. Violette, evangelist at the First Christian church, was again the speaker at the Tuesday luncheon of the Kiwanis Club. This time his subject was "The Commercial Life of America." He described the average American of a few years back, picturing him as a devotee of Charlie Chaplin, Fatty Arbuckle, and a man who shirked the real responsibilities of life, one who went to church on Sunday if it were too rainy to play golf. But now he said Americans were changing, they are beginning to think.

In speaking of the future development of the world, Dr. Violette said that its destiny rested on the countries of Japan and the United States.

He pointed out the marvelous development of Japan since Commodore Perry entered the harbor of Yokohama in 1858. "It is just as fair for Europeans to judge the inhabitants of the United States by the taxi drivers of New York as it is for us to judge the Japanese nation by the few immigrants who inhabit California," said Dr. Violette. He also said that the Japanese government was the best friend that we have among the nations, that the members of her diplomatic corps realize and appreciate the things we have done for Japan and the things that we can do. He told of the pitiful conditions in China, where more than ninety-five per cent of the people can neither read nor write, and said that the future of that country would be solved through the aid of Japan and America.

There was no business brought up at the meeting.

PINEVILLE POST OFFICE CRIPPLED

New Washington Regulation Means Loss of Seven Hours Help

PINEVILLE, Mar. 28.—The new regulation from Washington limiting the post office help will mean the loss of seven hours a day less help for the Pineville post office, according to L. C. Kackley, postmaster. The new rule prohibits any overtime on regular clerks and allows the employment of no auxiliary clerks.

According to Mr. Kackley, the present office force has been scarcely able to handle the work during the last six months and with this new shortage in help the efficient service of the office will be greatly handicapped. It will mean that there will be only two men to wait on the three windows even at the rush hours of the day, leaving one window without anyone.

A shortage in the appropriation makes this curtailment of expenses necessary, according to the officials at Washington.

HIGH SCHOOL ORATORICAL CONTEST FRIDAY MORNING

PINEVILLE, Mar. 28.—An oratorical contest will be held by the members of the High school team at the First Baptist church at 11 o'clock Friday morning. Herbert Rollins will give "The Possibilities of Man," Par Card, "Marcus Brutus," and Will Hunt, "The House in Order." These boys are the ones that will represent the Pineville H. S. at the state meet at Lexington the first of May.

Miss Lucy Gragg who will represent the school in the declamation contest will also give her declamation Friday morning. Her subject is "For Dear Old Yale."

MRS. SARAH PAYN DIES AT HOME IN VARILLA

PINEVILLE, Mar. 28.—The death of Mrs. Sarah C. Payne occurred Sunday at her home in Varilla. Mrs. Payne who died from tuberculosis, was 23 years old and had lived in Varilla all of her life. She is survived by her husband, Martin Payne, and three-year-old son, Thurman Payne. Funeral services were held at Paige Monday.

DESERTS HUSBAND FOR ANOTHER AFTER 28 YEARS

PINEVILLE, Mar. 28.—After being married twenty-eight years, Mrs. Josie Israel left her husband for another lover, according to the divorce petition filed with R. E. Wilson, circuit clerk Tuesday, by her husband, George Israel. According to the petition she eloped with another man February 17, 1923, and he does not know where she is.

Si Burdine also asks freedom from Emma Bell Burdine. They were married July 4, 1920 at Cumberland Gap according to the petition, and separated the following year. He charges her with abandonment.

Automobile Tags Received

PINEVILLE, Mar. 28.—Automobile tags have been received by the county clerk in Pineville and according to Lloyd Bronghton he has enough to meet the supply until about August. He has sold 146 within the last ten days and more than half of that number were for new cars.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

By Charles P. Stewart

Has the average American so very much to gain by a settlement of Europe's post-war problems of all sorts? A world conference for the adjustment of these problems—financial and economic—was declared necessary at the International Chamber of Commerce congress in Rome last week.

The resolution calling on all countries to join in the discussion was offered by President F. L. Fray of the Greenville (Pa.) Steel Car Company; and chairman of the finance section of the congress which adopted it, was Vice President Willys Booth of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

So the proposition has quite an American flavor.

Members of the congress took the view that the United States is mixed up in the world's affairs that it's impossible for her to enjoy real prosperity unless the rest of the world enjoys the same thing—"without recognition," as the resolution put it, "of the independence of the world's economic organization."

Does It Interest Everybody?

Of course it's true that all this applies to America's foreign trade. Americans who want to sell goods abroad are so disorganized that the countries are unable to buy.

And the American members of the International Chamber of Commerce must be interested in international trade, or they wouldn't have joined that kind of an organization.

From their standpoint then, a feeling of anxiety to straighten the foreign situation out is natural enough.

But there's a group of Americans who can't see how it affects them. Their business is at home, they say. They don't care if they never sell any goods outside of the United States.

The foreign traders' answer is that there's got to be a foreign market for American products of they'll pile up at home. If so, they say we'll have hard times—labor'll starve.

Why? The others ask. If labor produces more than it needs to eat and wear and go flivvering in, why should it starve? Why doesn't it eat and wear and go flivvering up to the limit of satiety and let the over-products go, or store them away in case it's needed later on?

This isn't explained.

Not All Like Us

There are countries that can't afford to look at it this way.

For instance, England can't. She hasn't the space to produce raw material that she requires. She produces more of some things than she needs, but not nearly enough of others. She's got to trade what she over-produces for what she doesn't produce at all.

The United States, however, is entirely self-supporting. She could be cut off entirely from the rest of the world forever and not know the difference, except perhaps she might have to get along without coffee and some tropical fruits and arctic fox pelts and "such."

If the United States can't get along by herself, ask the skeptics, why doesn't the whole world overproduce and have hard times, lacking facilities to unload onto Mars?

Traded Mostly At Home

And anyway, it's also asked, was America's trade a factor in keeping her surplus down, in the days before smash as played with it by the war?

In answer to this question, it transpires that the pre-war exports of the United States were around 5 per cent of her total commerce, the rest of her trading having been done at home.

Hardly Excited At All

In short, persons who doubt the real seriousness—to themselves—of the world business perils that the International Chamber of Commerce talks

More Smoke Than Fire

The German government professes to be badly worried by threats of a royalist "coup," but not much trouble developed except a little that the authorities stirred up in Berlin—and then suppressed, of course, to prevent it from going too far.

But it goes without saying that the situation in the Ruhr keeps the country badly unsettled and it wouldn't be surprising if something unpleasant really were to happen any time.

This is true of France, too, where her political opponents are raking Premier Poincare mercilessly, in the Chamber of Deputies and out of it. There seems to be some ground for criticism when it's considered that France and Belgium, between them, are getting only an estimated 3000 tons of coal and coke from the Ruhr a day, as compared with 40,000 they were getting before they seized the mines, in order to get more. And the franc has slumped from 7.42 American cents to 6.06 in the same time.

Herr Stinnes has gone to Rome to see President Gary of the United States Steel Corporation—so they say—relative to plans for solving the Ruhr problem. Most people think these discussions between the business magnates mean a lot more than discussions between the governments do.

Lumber---the Important Factor in Building

WHEN you build be sure of your Lumber! If "A" grade lumber is to be used see that it is "A" grade. Lumber filled with knots and poorly seasoned will not last long nor will your home. MORE BUILDINGS CONTEMPLATED HERE THAN EVER BEFORE

Small Residences in Great Demand—
Babson Advises Building Now, Says Lumber Cheaper Than
Will Be for Some Time

GROWING SCARCITY OF LUMBER IMPORTANT FACTOR

"Locally more buildings are contemplated than ever before. Prosperous business in all lines brings about an enlargement of plants and business houses to adequate capacity to promote business and it denotes a soundness in business that we have not known for several years," according to a local lumber dealer.

"Small residences are in great demand. Undoubtedly now is the time to build and people in general are beginning to realize it," he continued.

Babson, the great statistician, says in his reports that building is cheaper now than it will be in several years to come, and his advice is to build now. His reports on commodity prices shows an increase in every line of building material and no one can deny the accuracy of his report on future markets.

Local lumber yards are carrying unusually large stocks and regardless of car shortage and advancing prices will be in a position to supply all local demands and give advantage of rising market during the rush season from August to December.

To those who think that the prices of lumber are unreasonably high and that profiteering in this commodity is taking place this spring, the following figures may be of interest:

Four hundred mills located in every important production center of the United States reporting to the National Lumber Manufacturers' association for the week ending March 10 show they are running practically normal capacity. The same figures show a forty per cent increase in some lines of lumber production over a year ago.

Local embargoes by the transportation lines and freight car shortage is beginning to show a decrease in shipments. This factor is likely to stimulate the market and not allow any reaction from the present status of the market.

When people say lumber is high and talk of profiteering they fail to associate the growing scarcity and increasing cost of production with the prices of lumber. The increased value of the standing timber, the increased scarcity and the increased cost of manufacture are the factors which make lumber higher than it was a year ago.

A building constructed ten years ago is worth more money today than the day it was built. A well planned and well constructed building is a sound investment today and there need be no fear of inflated values today and a deflation tomorrow in the building program.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENTS ON DORCHESTER AVENUE

An addition is being built to the store of W. R. Oaks on Dorchester avenue which will be used by Rausome Crabtree for a soft drink bottling shop. The extra room makes a handsome addition to the store.

A large number of buildings are being erected in the western section now. Dr. Ausmus is building a five-room cottage on the Noetown road and Mrs. Joe Lampkins is building a four-room cottage on Dorchester avenue.

F. W. WOOLWORTH WILL NOT PUT STORE IN MIDDLESBORO

Failing to agree with local agents on terms of rental, F. W. Woolworth will not locate a store in Middlesboro. For several weeks negotiations have been pending for a long time lease on the Shelburne building adjoining the City Barber shop but the main office recently rejected the terms proposed by the realty agents and the owners of the building will now look for other tenants.

A concrete floor is now being made and contracts for the building of a modern front and work of redecorating the interior have been let. A few weeks will be required to put the building in first class condition.

To remodel the building in conformity with the wishes of the Woolworth agents would have involved the expenditure of several thousands of dollars. Its owners raised the price of the lease to an amount justified by the additional expense of remodeling. A Woolworth representative was in the city recently and it was his opinion that the headquarters office would approve the lease. This it failed to do, however, and it seems Middlesboro is not destined to be the 1201st link in the Woolworth chain.

English Bungalow for $8165

The slight spring at the roof of the eaves, the substantial chimneys and the casements are characteristically English touches on this six-room bungalow. Besides the large living porch, under the main roof, there is a small entry porch near the kitchen, and a sleeping porch opening off the hall, so that it is conveniently reached from each of the three bedrooms.

At least 55x00 is needed, whether the porch or the stoop is used for frontage. The living room, dining room, living porch and kitchen are all at the front, and should be on the sunniest side.

One enters the living room directly. There is a hearth in one corner. Near it a glazed door leads to the porch.

Old-Fashioned Cupboards

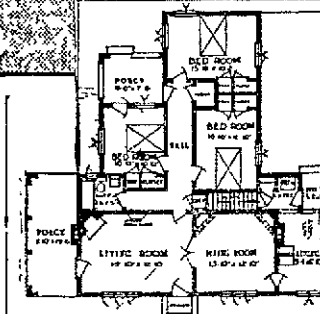

At the right as one enters the room, are French doors leading to the dining room. Like the living room, the dining room has a group of three casements toward the front. A pair of corner china closets give an additional charm to this cheerful place. It is interesting to know that although these machine-made and so called "stock items" obtainable at reasonable cost, their design is an exact reproduction of a pair of fine old corner cupboards that are now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The little kitchen is fairly lined with built-in conveniences.

In the adjoining rear entry is a broom closet, a nook for the refrigerator, and the basement steps, so that the kitchen is spared much tracking and confusion.

Cross-Ventilation

The sleeping quarters are so arranged

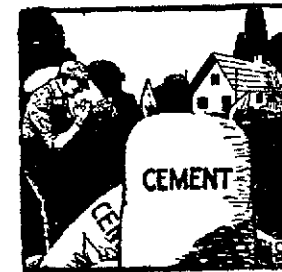

ELEVATION AND PLAN OF SIX-ROOM BUNGALOW DESIGNED BY CURTIS SERVICE BUREAU, CLINTON, IA.

that they can be isolated from the rest of the house entirely. The bedrooms are what most housewives would characterize as just right in size, neither too large so as to be wasteful of space and labor, nor so small, so as to be crowded. Two of them have cross-ventilation. In fact, the largest of the three has casements on three sides.

Cross-ventilation might be secured in the third room by the use of one of the new bedroom slat doors, which are one of the fine points of modern house-planning. Such doors as in demand for clothes closets, also, as they afford ventilation so much desired where where clothing is stored.

Each bedroom is supplied with a generous closet and a built-in chest of drawers, not to mention the large store closet in the hall and the linen case near the bathroom.

Curtis Service Bureau, Canton, Ia., estimated the cost of this home at $8165. This includes heating, wiring and plumbing, but it may vary slightly in different localities.

NOON IN KENTUCKY

All day from the tulip-poplar boughs
The cheewink's voice like a gold bell rings.
The meadow lark pipes to the drowsy cows.
And the oriole like a red roses wings,
and clings and swings,
Shaking the noon with his burning wings.
A flush of purple within the brake
The redbud burns where the sparrow
wood blooms,
And the brook laughs low where the
white dew shake,
And flows and goes
Under the feet of the wet wood rose
Odors of May-apple blossoming.
And violets stirring and bluebells shaken—
Shadow's that start with the thrush's wing
And float on the pools, and swim and waken—
Unbaken, untaken—
Bronze wood naiads that wait for saken.

All day the hiredendron droops
Over the thickets her moon of gold;
All day the cumulous dogwood groups
Flake the mosses with star-snows cold.
While gold untold
The oriole pours from his song thatched hold.

Carol of love all day in the thickets.
Redbird; warble, O thrush of pain!
Pipe me of pity, O rainbow hidden
Deep in the wood! and lo! the refrain
Of pain again
Shall out of the bosom of Heaven bring rain!

Etiquet is simply another name for good behavior. The child who is taught to behave properly can be relied upon, almost instinctively, to meet every circumstance in later life with proper courtesy. PROHIBITIONS

A well-bred man does not nudge, grasp or slap another man on the back, and certainly does not so much as lay his finger tips on a woman.
A gentleman never borrows money from a woman whether she be a friend or social acquaintance or a relative.
No well bred man or woman speaks of money outside of business.

TODAY'S RECIPES

HORSE RADISH SAUCE

Horseradish sauce adds that tinge of taste to meat, fish and even vegetables that many people like to have. There are two types of this sauce. One is hot and the other cold. A piece of boiled beef may be served with the hot sauce, and when cold the beef may be sliced to be served with the cold sauce.

The following recipe is for the hot sauce:

Melt three tablespoons of butter and add three tablespoon of flour. When bubbling, add one cup of milk, and salt and pepper to taste. Cook until thickened, add one-half cup of cream and allow the sauce to boil for half a minute. Now add three tablespoons of grated fresh horseradish and one-half tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice.

Cold Horseradish Sauce

1-2 cup cream
3 tablespoons grated fresh horseradish
1 tablespoon vinegar
Salt and paprika to taste
Beat cream until stiff, add horseradish mixed with vinegar, salt and paprika.
NOTE: This sauce placed on slices of tomato and garnished with lettuce or watercress makes an appetizing salad to serve with cold meat.

Joseph M. Gates will present "Take It From Me," the three ring circus of musical comedy, direct from it's over a year run at the 44th Street Theatre, New York, five months at the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago, at Manning Friday, April 6.

It is the work of William B. Johnston, a well known New York newspaper cartoonist, who has completely succeeded in transferring to the musical comedy stage a number of real characters which he discovered and elaborated out of the droll incidents of everyday life. Such delightful music, such delicious comedy, such magnificent stage pictures, are seldom combined in one musical comedy piece, and the exceeding attractiveness of it all is enhanced by the excellent company in the various roles and the beautiful "Kiss-Me" chorus girls.

LOCAL MARBLE TOURNAMENT PROGRESSES WITH SPRING

The Middlesboro marble tournament is on. On the streets, vacant lots and in various back yards youthful contestants may be seen practicing in the preliminary engagements. Many a boy's trousers pockets are now bulging with agates and "crookies" won from some less skillful player.

Social restrictions are very loose in this universal juvenile pastime. Boys of all ranks of life, hite and colored clean and dirty may be seen gathered around the smooth, vacant places interestedly watching the tiny ball as it speeds toward the others in the center of the ring. Luck is an unknown quality in the game. The player with the calculating eye, the stone thumb and unerring aim is ever the lad whose pockets are heaviest.

JUDGE HERD TALKS TO KIWANIS CLUB

Urges Deeper Civic Responsibility—
'Club Votes to Hold Ladies'
Night Every Three Months

The regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club was held today noon with Dr. O. O. Stone as chairman, Judge Charles E. Herd as principal speaker and T. R. Hill acting president in the absence of both president and vice-president. Jack Caldwell drew the attendance prize.

S. M. Reams, chairman of a committee appointed several weeks ago, recommended that Ladies' Night be held every three months, on the strength of a ballot taken among Kiwanians' wives. This the club voted to adopt. A motion was made and passed that the Strollers of the University of Kentucky be urged to come to Middlesboro this year to give their play.

Insistence upon a deeper sense of civic responsibility was the theme of Judge Herd's address and the points he brought out were all well taken. "Notwithstanding our many splendid buildings, as the hotel, the schools and the bank," he said in beginning, "and notwithstanding the fact that so much has been said in the near past about good roads and streets, Middlesboro has, certainly more poor thoroughfares than any other city in the country, and this is typical of the section."

He went on to tell the natural resentment he, as a citizen of this Appalachian region, felt to hear it referred to as the most lax in progress in the United States, but he added that there was nevertheless some justice in this statement. "This section has not progressed as places elsewhere have in schools, churches and road construction, and a community might as well try to get along like a team of oxen, one yoked and one free, as try to get along without schools, churches, roads and the press."

In connection with this Judge Herd paid sincere tribute to the press as a public institution and a help to progress. "There is less newspaper reading here than any place I know of," he said, "and until people take the press more seriously we can not have the greatest possible progress." Judge Herd was in the newspaper business here twelve years and speaks from his own experience.

Last of all he praised the Kiwanis Club, saying it should be the most useful thing in the town in the future. "Our city is not making the progress it should with taxes and assessments so high," he declared. "There must be some reason and it is the business of this club to find it."

Big "Plantation Night" Arranged By Atlanta to Entertain Convention Guests

ATLANTA Ga., Mar. 29.—Visitors to the Kiwanis International Convention in Atlanta, the last week in May, will not be disappointed in their hope of seeing a Georgia cotton field white with the fleecy staple, even though Georgia cotton fields never open until close to midsummer, for the Atlanta hosts have announced their intention of transferring a whole cotton field to the stage of the auditorium for this occasion, with a gang of real negro cotton pickers, composed of ancient ante-bellum darkies, little pickaninnies and one of the finest choruses of negro jubilee singers to be found in the South. This will be the principal scene of the big "Plantation Night" extravaganza to be given for the benefit of the Kiwanis visitors, who will be permitted to try their own hands at picking cotton after the final curtain has fallen.

The most elaborate entertainment features ever provided for a convention in the South are being planned by the committee of Atlanta Kiwanians. They include a "Glee Club" night, when Kiwanis Clubs from all over the United States and Canada will compete in chorus singing; the "Plantation Night" feature, and a barbecue in old fashioned Georgia style, at which more than 5,000 guests will be served, to be followed by a later carnival, special vaudeville and an elaborate fireworks display.

Reservations already made indicate that the convention will be the most largely attended in the history of Kiwanis, even Canada sending 500 or more delegates and visitors. Several special trains are scheduled, with stop overs at various cities along the route. The convention will begin on May 28 and continue through May 31st.

Kiwanians in Knoxville Today
A. P. Liebig, Supt. J. W. Bradner, W. V. Tennant and C. A. Blackburn were in Knoxville today to attend a Kiwanis meeting. International President, George Ross of Toronto, Canada is the guest of the Knoxville Club today and delegates from all over this district are there to hear him speak.
